Event Synopsis

An effective antitrust compliance program is essential to minimize criminal antitrust conduct and to help companies comply with the law. Traditionally, the U.S. Department of Justice Antitrust Division has avoided providing specific guidelines for Corporate Antitrust Compliance Programs. Instead, it has provided generalized standards and encouraged companies to create their own antitrust compliance program that is most suited to the company's business and its markets.

Increasingly, the Division seeks to promote competition by enforcing a new guideline on antitrust. The Amnesty Plus program, part of the US Corporate Leniency Policy, provides companies with incentives to institute and maintain effective antitrust compliance programs and to undertake comprehensive internal investigations to dissuade anticompetitive violations.

In this CLE course, seasoned speakers assembled by The Knowledge Group will discuss developing and maintaining effective Corporate Antitrust Compliance Programs and the imposition of Increased Fines or Incentives. The panel of speakers also will provide compliance professionals with an overview of the opposing antitrust guidelines of Increasing Criminal Antitrust Fines and Corporate Compliance Incentives.

Key topics include:

- Antitrust Laws
- Corporate Leniency Program
 - Qualifying for Leniency
- Amnesty Plus Program
- Consequences of Increased Fines
 - More Trials
 - Foregoing Plea Bargaining
- Developing Corporate Compliance Programs
- Minimizing Litigation Risk
